Swiss Forum for Migration and Population Studies

The Swiss Forum for Migration and Population Studies (SFM) is a research and training institute at the University of Neuchâtel. As part of the department of Humanities and Social Sciences the institute offers a master's degree with a unique specialization in "Migration and Citizenship."

The SFM was founded in 1995 at the start of a national research programme on migration and intercultural relations. From the beginning the institute's declared aim has been to make a pragmatic contribution to discussions of topics relevant to migration. The institute has completed more than 300 studies, most financed by the Swiss National Science Foundation (SNSF) or mandated by various institutions or organizations (federal, cantonal, communal or private organizations). The SFM fosters interdisciplinary research on the circulation of people, goods and knowledge. It is affiliated to the Centre for the Understanding of Social Processes of the University of Neuchâtel (MAPS) and is a partner of the Swiss Centre of Expertise in Human Rights (SCHR).
